They can choose to receive their pension by monthly payments for life or a lump sum of money calculated at the average life expectancy.

Asking about schedule

1. Asking how many components there are

A. Pattern: Subject + [illegible] + [illegible] + Classifier

[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] How many training programs are there today?
[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] How many courses are there in this program?
[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] How many months are there in a year?
[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] How many times are there in a month?

B. Pattern: ([illegible]) + noun + [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] What are the programs?
[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] What are the seasons?
[illegible] What are the months?
[illegible] What are the days?

2. Asking when something begins and ends

Pattern: Noun phrase + [illegible] + [illegible]
[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] When will the training begin?
[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] When did the meeting end?

Other verbs which can be used in place of [illegible] are the following:

[illegible] to begin [illegible] to end [illegible] to end
[illegible] to be born [illegible] to die [illegible] to be completed to occur

Other interrogative expressions which can be used in place of [illegible] are the following:

[illegible] which date [illegible] which day
[illegible] what time [illegible] what time

3. Adverbs of frequency

Adverbs of frequency indicate how often something happens. A group of adverbs of frequency are compound words consisting of a word indicating time preceded by numeric words such as □□□□ 'many' □□□ 'each, every' and □□□ 'some'. When one wants to be emphatic, these adverbs are used at the beginning of the sentence.

□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□ □□□□□□□□□□□□□□	The soldiers have to clean their barrack many times a day.

□□ — Every time it will be inspected by the First Sergeant.

□□□□□□□ (□□□□□) □□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□ — Sometimes they have to redo the cleaning.

Some adverbs of frequency are not compound words and some only occur in the initial or final position of a sentence. These are some examples:

□□□□□□□ □□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□ — Usually, there is no sea training in this month.

□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□ — This year, it rains often.

□□□ — Soldiers must always have their supplies ready (for emergency).

4. **□□□□□□□ / □□□□
Both of these words mean 'to jump'. The former is rather formal and the latter is informal and is generally used colloquially.

5. □□□□ is the short form of □□□□□□□□ meaning 'to wake up'. Although the term 'to get up' □□□□□□□□ does exist in Thai, □□□□ is preferred when talking about getting up in the morning.

6. □□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□ is the colloquial form of □□□□□□□□□□□□ meaning 'weekend'. The latter is rather formal and is rarely used in daily conversation.

7. □□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□ means 'schedule of activities'. It cannot be used to mean schedule in any other sense.

Culture Notes
Module 4 Lesson 1

Life in military installations throughout Thailand varies greatly from that of soldiers in the United States. In Thailand for example, barracks may have no air conditioning, their ventilation consisting simply of wooden slats on the wall that open up to let air in. Air circulation may be enhanced with a ceiling fan, and living quarters may consist of a single bed, a footlocker or wall locker, and a common latrine for a unit of 20 soldiers per room, with no private baths. A barrack may consist of 40 to 50 soldiers per barrack.

Thai soldiers are not allowed to have any personal items except for what the Armed Forces supply to them. The average salary of a Thai soldier is about $40.00 dollars a month, as opposed to an American soldier who earns 4 or 5 times more than a Thai NCO (non-commissioned officer) of more than 25 to 30 years of service.

Thai soldiers must wear their uniforms at all times, whereas a U.S. soldier is permitted to change into civilian clothes once they leave their military installation. A Thai company may consist of about 130 soldiers. The Thai military installation does not have recreational facilities such as swimming pools or exercise facilities, except for those in Bangkok. Thai soldiers have to go into town, when permitted, for recreation and entertainment. They do have separate dining facilities for officers, NCOs and the draftees. There is no “commissary”, but a small PX which is usually not abundantly stocked. Haircuts are free for the draftees and uniforms are annually issued. They have to do their own laundry, and can’t cook for themselves in their barrack facilities, whereas U.S. soldiers have at least the use of a microwave.

A daily routine for a soldier comprises intensive drills and exercises known to American troops. For example, the day may begin with a couple of hours of marching, drills, going to the firing range, some sort of military training or sports activities for exercise. Sometimes they do details around the military installation.

The Thai military is regarded as a national institution, the one that is built on countless sacrifice of lives in order to safeguard independence and the sovereignty of the country. The military has stated its position clearly that it will not get involved with politics. It will stand by the side of the people and will always protect democracy which has the King as the Head of the state. His Majesty King Bhumibol also suggests that ‘combat’ and ‘development’ be carried out simultaneously, and the military has always been responsive to the Royal suggestion as evidenced in the military's participation in various government development projects.

The military is made up of people from all levels of Thai society. In addition to basic training, they have an opportunity to develop their skills and knowledge in many areas which will be useful to them after leaving the service.
